

Todos Juntos: Collaboration and Unity in Uncertain Times

A multistate conference about integration of immigrants

University of Missouri-St. Louis

June 14 -16, 2017

Sponsorship Opportunities - About the conference

"Cambio de Colores (Change of Colors)" is an annual conference that focuses on issues related to the integration of Latinos, immigrants and refugees in new destination states in the American Heartland.

The sixteenth conference will take place at the University of Missouri-St. Louis on June 14-16, 2017. The conference theme this year is "Todos Juntos: Collaboration and Unity in Uncertain Times." Todos Juntos means "all together", and seeks to build collaboration across sectors and unite communities across differences in the common goal of supporting everyone's wellbeing in our changing, multicultural communities. Speakers and workshops will address the many interest areas that fall under this theme, including health, education, youth development, change and integration, civil rights and political participation, and entrepreneurship and economic development.

Sponsorship Opportunities - Conference objectives

The 16th annual Cambio de Colores (Change of Colors) conference convenes research and extension academics, public and private sector service providers and professionals, grassroots and advocacy organizations, state and local government institutions, and newcomers themselves. The diverse and enthusiastic participation in these very inclusive events demonstrates the relevance and urgency of addressing both the challenges and the opportunities that arise in Missouri and other new destination states as Latinos and other newcomers settle as workers, families and members of communities.

The conference's main goal is to provide knowledge towards a smooth and lasting integration of the new population, through the following objectives:

- Provide an opportunity to assess the changes brought about by the presence of new Latino urban and rural settlers in Missouri and other new destination states.
- Use research findings as a basis for building productive practices and advocacy in individuals, organizations, and communities to effectively engage and integrate newcomers.
- Examine newcomers' contributions to the changing economic, social, and cultural landscapes.
- Provide an understanding of the opportunities this demographic change is bringing to people, communities, businesses, and educational institutions.
- Provide a forum to discuss the challenges that growth and change generate for institutions and new and long-term residents of these new immigrant destinations.
- Share relevant scholarship and best practices, as well as to identify knowledge and service needs that should be addressed.

Led by the University of Missouri, Cambio de Colores is a collaborative effort that includes University of Missouri Extension, the campuses of the Missouri system, and other educational institutions in the Midwest and the Southern regions, as well as government and private organizations. Since 2009, the conference has benefited from the cooperation of the interstate initiative on "Latinos and Immigrants in Midwestern Communities," North Central Education and Research Activity 216 (NCERA 216).
